

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a medical clip consisting of a platelet of an elastic bio-compatible material, the platelet is provided with a central H-shaped cut-out so as to form a frame structure with tongues extending from the frame structure toward each other and having adjacent front edges forming grasping elements, and the frame structure is curved and elastically biases the front edges toward each other.